VOL. XLIV-NO. 298

THE first chapter in the rascality practiced by the United States marshal and his army of deputies at the State and Congressional elections in Hamilton county, other column. It proves, if anything were needed to do so, the necessity for repealing all the national legislation in relation to elections. It has been only productive of fraud and villainy.

THE Reagan interstate commerce bill was up for consideration in the House yesterday, and many speeches were made, the burden of them being favorable words for the appointment of a National Railroad Commission, though some of the speakers did not exactly favor Resgan's measure. The drift of public sentiment is in the direction indicated by Mr. Reagan, and there is no room to doubt that if his bill does not pass this Congress it will the the purpose of securing a republican form of government in Mississippi, which ought to be entitled a bill to insure the control and management of elections in that State in Chalmers's interest. Of course the reading of this bill was greeted with derisive laughter by the Democrats. The idea of Chalmers laboring for fair and free elections is equal to one of "Humpty-Dumpty's" jokes.

The Mobile Register, in a few timely words, calls attention to the fact that the Electoral College system of electing a President is a very awkward business, and form of government in Mississippi, which

President is a very awkward business, andought to be changed. The theory of the constitution is that the Presidential electconstitution is that the Presidential electrons meet to vote for whoever may seem to them the most fit. There is nothing in the constitution which last Wednesday could have prevented electors from voting for Butler, St. John, Mulhatton, George Francis Train or anybody else if they had chosen to. To avoid such a possibility had chosen to. To avoid such a possibility of the constitution which last wednesday to the preface the poet says the work is not intended in its present form to meet the exigencies of the modern theater. There will be no war on the railroads, nor will the railroads be permitted, as is threatened, to make war on the people. Tennessee is to have a commission because 234,967 of the voters are for it and only 19,019 are against it. Besides this, in Georgia, where the Ruilroad Commissioners are invested with unusual powers, the railroads are most properous, their stocks are quoted among the best and the people have no complaint. We must have a Railroad Commission or confess that the railroads are to me, the Sunday last Maj. Campbell Wallace, the well-known Railroad Commissioner of Georgia, completed his seventyeighth year. The Atlanta Constitution, exofficial, says: "Mej. Wallace has lived a long life of usefulness, and the struggles be has had, as well as the sorrows that have come to him, have served only to broaden and deepen his sympathies. His career ought to be, and will be, an example to the younger generation, as showing what simplicity of character, singleness of purpose and unflinching integrity may accomplish. But the question may be asked, what has he accomplished? He has accumulated no great fortune, he He has accumulated no great fortune, he has held no high office. In what, then, has he succeeded? He has achieved the yesterday, was made the occasion of a highest success that it is given to man to achieve—he has won the love, the respect and the confidence of his fellow-men. He has been true to the highest ideals of honor and integrity." No man has ever done more.

THE Rev. Dr. Boggs, since he left Memphis, has been most usefully employed as nary at Columbia, S.
